STANDARD

Across every brand

G&S Hospitality Group is the parent of four hospitality brands rooted in Miami and serving South Florida and beyond. Each brand answers to its own audience – couples, corporate clients, planners, students – but all four answer to the same standard.

We design for the moment, not the margin. We treat hospitality as a discipline, not a costume. The group exists to give each brand the operational backbone of a larger company – shared standards, training, and accountability – while keeping the creative independence that makes each one distinct.

03 · STANDARDS

What we stand for, in every brand.

— I.

The moment is the product.

We don't sell catering, planning, or curriculum. We sell the moment a guest, a couple, or a student feels something land. Everything else is craft in service of that.

— II.

Hospitality is a discipline, not a costume.

We rehearse it, we measure it, and we hold ourselves to it whether the room has eight hundred guests or eight. The standard does not negotiate with the size of the event.

— III.

Design for the moment, not the margin.

When craft and cost-savings disagree, craft wins. The economics of every event are real, but they're solved by better systems — never by a worse guest experience.

— IV.

Independent voices, shared bones.

Each brand keeps its own audience, language, and aesthetic. What they share is a backbone of training, accountability, and standards — the unglamorous infrastructure that makes the visible work look effortless.

"We don't sell food, or flowers, or floor plans. We sell the moment a guest leans across the table and says this is exactly right."

FOUNDER

Maggie Rodriguez

Founder, G&S Hospitality Group

Maggie Rodriguez began her career in catering in 2005 and founded Inspired Events Miami in 2011 as a full-service catering and wedding planning practice rooted in South Florida. Over the next fifteen years, that single company grew into a four-brand portfolio: Inspired Events for live events, Wedding Masterclass for education, The Grazing Box for grazing-style catering, and Kitchen 2180 as the working kitchen and culinary incubator behind it all.

G&S Hospitality Group was established in 2026 as the parent of those four brands – built to give each one the operational discipline of a larger company while preserving the creative independence that makes each one distinct.

She is based in Coral Gables and works with a small team across all four brands.
